

Alternative Baits

Written by randy smith

Saturday, 27 February 2010 19:26

---

Hello everyone I joined recently and noticed I havent heard a word about a bait we use for carp in the south when corn just dont do it. Its a type a doughball you can get from the stores. wheaties, or bran flakes. Depending on mood of wheather the fish want light or dark. Wheaties being a little lighter. pour you some wheaties in a rag crunch up good and dip in water. Then ring out good make a large dough ball just break off small piece and ball it up around your hook. You cant sling it hard or it will sling off like liver. But it put out the scent they love in the creeks in the south. On average carps around here run from 10 to 25 lbs. Catch a grandma every now and then get around 40lb. I wish every one the best of luck with the fishing season to come.